DENR: Higher mining fees a boon

By Kristine L. Alvar

THE DEPARTMENT OF Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) said it would impose more charges on the mining industry to maintain government revenue as a result of the price of minerals such as gold and silver rising steadily in the world market.

Environment Secretary Ramon P. Alvar said he had proposed to President Arroyo several reforms in the mining industry to optimize the country's mineral assets and the country's mineral resources.

These reforms and new fees could give the government an income of about 20 billion yearly, he said, in a move to increase the country's mineral resources.

"We are developing the environment somehow through mining. This way, we can recover something from the environmental degradation," he said.

Some of the major changes proposed include the reformation of mine taxes and fees, which are now "halfhearted" and "too low," he said.

Q

WATT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN YOUR 10-YEAR OLD AIRCON AND TODAY'S CARRIER?

A

P 13,000 SAVINGS IN ELECTRICITY PER YEAR. THAT'S WATT!

IT'S IN THE WATTAGE

10-year old aircon units consume an average of 400 watts of electricity versus today's Carrier of only 445 watts. That's a difference of 400 watts per hour which means a 44% savings in electricity. At today's electricity rate of P11.50 per kilowatt per hour. That's a savings of P40.30 per day (average 8 hours use), P1,130 per month or a savings of P13,000 per year.

IT'S ALSO IN THE CARRIER TECHNOLOGY

Today's Carrier not only cools faster but likewise also consumes less electricity than your current air conditioner.

A Run Hour Timer that works like a prepaid card allowing you to program your aircon based on your present budget and target usage per month.

Eco-mode that automatically turns off the unit at your desired temperature.

Auto On/Off that allows you to preset your Carrier to turn off at your desired time.

Today's Carrier also has an 8-in-1 Filter that makes sure that the air you breathe is clean and healthy.

And a 24/7 service center that is just a call away.

Small wonder that Carrier is indeed the most preferred air conditioner brand in the market yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Replace your 10-year old aircon now!
What you will save in electricity will help pay for your new Carrier and more...

Charging royalties

Aside from these charges, the government is also thinking of charging mining firms a royalty fee.

This previously had been suggested to the DENR but was not adopted because of the industry's opposition.

Declaring an area a mineral reservation, which means to produce an act of "strategic" value to the country, would exempt a mining firm from paying royalties to the government.

De Lima: Amending rules of court to speed up justice

$1.500 million to speed up the delivery of justice, the Supreme Court is considering amendments to the rules of court, among them, allowing a judge to have greater participation in the litigation process and requiring higher standards of evidence before a lawsuit can be initiated.

Justice Secretary Lorda de Lima told reporters "the Supreme Court is seriously considering the revision of rules and coming up with proposals on how to address the serious problem of case congestion, which is one of the serious problems of our judiciaries."

the said the new rules would only have to be promulgated by the Supreme Court on June 1 and would not need to be legislative in nature. She said the amendments could be in place within the year.¹²

The secretary told the undersecretary passionately sought the Department of Justice's opinion on creating in the "prima facie standard" and abandoning the "probable cause rule" when public possession. He was in the lower court.

"Probable cause is such a low standard, and has been in effect for the past 30 years. In effect, it's easy on life as a case is court based on probable cause, although it's not sure if a trial would proceed," she said.

De Lima said insect infestations in the tropical forests have increased, requiring the governments as they search for viable evidence. In the meantime, she accused ex-

Lawyer laments non-extradition

A TOP official of Deutsche Bank in the Philippines, who is wanted by a Manila City court for embezzlement, was arrested in the United States last month but has been released because the Philippine government did not ask for extradition, a press lawyer said yesterday.

Jose Bernal, counsel for two non-employees in the criminal case against Deutsche Bank executive (Cebu) Chan, blamed the Department of Justice (DOJ) for not filing a fugitive complaint to have Chan extradited.

In a statement, Bernal said he learned that Chan was arrested while staying in a room next to the US at the US-Canada border on April 24. Agents of US Customs and Border Protection held Chan because of a red notice issued by Interpol.

An arrest warrant for Chan had been issued by the Manila Regional Trial Court Branch 143.

Bernal said Chan was released on May 18 because the DOJ did not act on his request for his extradition.

"This is a timely opportunity to have an arrested fugitive extradited to the country to face trial," the lawyer said.

It said he was told by his sources at the DOJ that his extradition request was not granted because Chan still had a pending motion for reconsideration of his arrest warrant.

Aside from Chan, other Deutsche Bank officials facing charges in the RTC are their sons, Young and Patrick Chan, a warrant of arrest against the latter was issued by Judge Cecilia Esguerra last month on Sept. 17, 2010.

Slain forester's family threatened

By Marivic Cline
Inquirer Staff Writer

SAN PEDRO, Laguna—The family of Egidio "Tojo" Malinas, 49, received "intimidating" text messages purportedly from the same person, who gassed down the Mt. Makiling forest guard.

The messages, in Filipino, said something like: "We know you know who killed (Malinas). Don't keep silent and not press charges if you do not want your family harmed. We have connections," the text goes, dear of the College of Forestry and Natural Resources (CFNR) of the University of the Philippines Los Baños, told the Inquirer on Friday.

He also quoted the messages as saying: "If you wait, you could get your woman to have a child first."

Cline said the text messages were received by Malinas's wife, Jessica, a government employee, on Thursday. Three days after Malinas was shot dead inside a jeepney along a busy highway.

The text also after Jessica had identified two persons as suspects in her husband's slaying.

"The slaying was, indeed, We feel like they are intimidating (the family)," Cline said.

He refused to identify the two suspects as police investigation continues, but said the university had provided security for the family and lapped the National Bureau of Investigation to investigate.

Malinas had been a forest guard on Mt. Makiling since 1998, and was a member of the National Bureau of Investigation's (NBI) Special Operations Group. He was also a member of the National Bureau of Investigation's (NBI) Special Operations Group.

Malinas proceeded to a hospital where he was later found dead by a forest guard.

The text also identified the person as a certain Adolfo Gonzales, who remained at large.

Radioman gets threat messages after discussing car smuggling

CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY—A broadcaster here last reported receiving a threatening text message on Saturday morning, while anchoring his early morning commentary program on Magandang Buhay (5-5PM).

An Albuja, a private security personnel and radio commentator, said receiving the message warning him about seeking further the alleged smuggling activities involving Lizardo Malinas.

The allegations against Albuja came following the seizure by agents of the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) of 25 cars, cars and motorcycles, including one of allegedly stolen from Hollywood writer ship Woods, from warehouses and in a building in Cagayan.

Albuja remains free, with the NBI adding that no one out has been found yet for his arrest.

Albuja, also general manager of Magandang Buhay, said he was doing a commentary on the morning of Magandang Buhay the previous day when he received the text message warning him to withdraw money.

The text message said: "We Albuja are doing up a message to Albuja regarding the cars and the people that are using the cars. Lizardo Malinas, stop investigating the cars if you want to live in the city. If you do not, you will be dead." The message was sent from mobile number 0903 1005795.

Albuja said he had no commentary on the seizure of Magandang Buhay, Alexander Jose Padilla, but the car dealer was a victim of the situation. Padilla also mentioned that Albuja did not smuggle the cars and motorcycles seized in the two warehouses two weeks ago.

The NBI had said that it has in its possession a "black book" seized from the seizure. The black book allegedly contains a list of Magandang Buhay contacts and clients and reportedly includes a governor, a congressman, a senator and a police official.

Padilla also said Albuja brought the seized cars and motorcycles to the country and, later, when the government took a role in the seizure of the cars.

A person who did not want to be identified said he did not know in any way that the seizure would be the seizure in the city.

One rotten apple doesn't a bad tree make

But (DAGONG) investigation into corruption in the Armed Forces of the Philippines is, obviously, a welcome development in the campaign to root out seriously prevalent in government. The hope that our public officers are finally waking up and standing up to being close to civilian power and soldiers, again, are solid reasons.

However, this and recent events have severely damaged the image of the HIV in the eyes of the very people it is supposed to protect and reassure.

Only a large number of our country men—89 percent, according to a survey conducted by Public Affair during the period advance sales, considering APT officials were being exposed in the media...now consider the APT as the most corrupt orgary of our government. It is unfortunate to see that this perception was based on the wrongful actions of a few individuals, not reflecting the facts of what we are seeing. It is unfortunate to see that the vast majority of soldiers who have faithfully demonstrated their moral virtues of the American

Where's Binay?

Binay was not around. His aides said the Vice President was on a private engagement in Bali.

Dr. Eric Sings of the Department of Health said the agency had invited all members of the Cabinet, including Binay, to Bali.

Asked whether the presence of Binay indicated the latter was now "in," Communications Secretary Ricky Gumbang said he had not previously appeared in the Palace, citing his work as a television personality for the Asian for Liberty Party coalition.

"I guess he's stilling himself into the job," Gumbang said of Binay.

He stressed that Binay would still appear at Palace functions upon the invitation of the President.

A treasure

In a speech, Mr. Aquino underscored the need for people to exercise for good health.

"Health is a treasure we should all treasure. In getting into the habit of exercising, we can protect the nation's wealth," he said. "The nation's wealth is not just in its natural resources but also in its people's health and vitality."

Mr. Aquino kicked off the program by leading a 10-minute fitness routine with the Cabinet members and other officials, including Energy Secretary Justo Briones and Metropolitan Manila Development Authority Chair Francisco Tolentino.

Other Cabinet members like Justice Secretary Leila de Lima and Social Welfare Secretary Corason Soliman took part in the exercise.

Also present were Foreign Secretary Evaristo Aguirre, Education Secretary Armin Luistro, Presidential Spokesperson Edwin Luisa, and various other officials.

Roxas' functions

Consolidating said the President's task of exercise for some was taking.

"The President is taking exercise for the health of the nation," Gumbang said. "He will continue to exercise for the health of the nation."

He also said the Presidential Management Staff was still putting the finishing touches to the administration's other defining "Roxas" brand as that of staff.

Also joining the bike ride were Justice Aquino, son of the President's secretary under his father, who was with other celebrities in the group.

Economy seen to have grown 5.1% in Q1

Market Watch: US GDP GROWTH SLIPS IN Q4 2010 | Philippine economy set for recovery | 2nd quarter economic growth | US trade deficit narrows | US trade deficit narrows

Germany powers eurozone economic surge

Region grows twice as fast as US despite debt concerns

US consumer prices rise on food, gas costs

WASHINGTON—US consumers paid more for gas and food in April, lifting inflation to its highest level in two and a half years. The inflationary pressure has helped to raise this month, and analysts say some prices could taper off by summer.

The Consumer Price Index increased 0.4 percent in April, the Labor Department said. In the past 12 months, prices have risen 3.2 percent. That's the biggest rise ever since prices rose 3.6 percent in March 2008.

Including volatile food and energy, which account for about 30 percent of the CPI, the index increased 0.2 percent in April and has risen 1.3 percent over the past 12 months. That still falls below the level the Federal Reserve wants to achieve a healthy pace of inflation.

Economists like to study more volatile food and energy prices—the so-called “core” prices—to see long-term trends. Food and energy can rise or fall sharply because of temporary price fluctuations.

The rise of rent and used cars, clothing and medical care all increased, propelling up the core index. Car prices fell, however, because of discounts on new cars. The index also fell because of discounts on new cars.

Oil has fallen from $114 a barrel earlier this month to about $108 Friday. Prices of some other goods have also fallen in recent days. Economists say gas and food prices should fall later this year. High prices are likely to slow the economy this year. But growth should increase in the second half of this year, they say.

“With commodity prices now dropping back, it looks like inflation is close to peaking,” said Brad Anderson, chief US economist for Capital Economics. He says year-over-year inflation should climb to 2.5 percent before dropping back to around half of that.

Guy Leinster, an economist at Deutsche Economics, said yearly inflation figures should start to decline in the next month. “If all things go well, prices should continue to rise. The Federal Reserve won't need to start raising interest rates and not need to keep inflation in check,” he said.

The price of gasoline rose 3.3 percent in April. That accounted for half of the monthly increase. Gas has risen more than 20 percent in the past year because of demand in fast-growing developing countries and political turmoil in the Middle East. Gasoline is expected to rise $1.50 a gallon (about $1.50 a barrel) nationwide, up $1.00 from last year.

Food prices increased 0.4 percent last month. That was half the previous month's rise.

fallen in recent days. Economists say gas and food prices should fall later this year. High prices are likely to slow the economy this year. But growth should increase in the second half of this year, they say.

The eurozone's economy expanded by a healthy 0.9 percent in the first three months of this year, according to Eurostat, the EU's statistics office on Friday. That was more than double the 0.3 percent growth posted in the previous three-month period, ahead of analysts' expectations for a 0.6 percent increase and twice US growth.

The eurozone is therefore significantly more buoyant after major developed economies at the moment,” said Chris Williams, chief economist at Citigroup. The figures have boosted expectations that the European Central Bank will follow up April's interest rate increase—the first in nearly three years—with another, possibly in July, despite some consumer debt concerns.

In past six-year terms, the eurozone economy grew 2.3 percent, roughly in line with what many see should be in long-term growth.

However, the European commissioner in charge of monetary policy, economist Olli Rehn, said the EU will review the performance on growth levels next year.

That's far slower than most predicted in 2010, when the global economy tanked due to Europe's and longer recession after the collapse of US investment bank Lehman Brothers brought the financial system to its knees.

The main message in our forecast is that the economic recovery in Europe is solid and sustainable, despite recent external cost pressures and tensions in the eurozone debt market,” Rehn said.

The Commission's new forecasts are for the eurozone to grow 1.6 percent this year and the other 27 nations 1.5, which is double last year's numbers seen in October, by 1.5 percent.

Unsurprisingly given its share size, Germany was the main reason the eurozone grew last year's first quarter.

In 1.5 percent growth, the EU's largest economy has now made up all the output lost during the recession in manufacturing by a healthy “balance of exports and household spending.”

“Germany is the engine of growth among industrial countries, and not just in Europe,” German Economy Minister Philipp Roesler said.

France's economy, the eurozone's second biggest, expanded by a robust 3 percent on higher consumer spending and business investment.

Northern economies like the Netherlands grew strongly while Italy and Spain lagged behind.

Per capita income rose slightly, given the debt squeeze it is in. Greece posted solid growth of 0.4 percent, its first economic expansion since the fourth quarter of 2009.

However, the increase is widely judged as a temporary rebound as the previous quarter's contraction was doubled to a robust 2.8 percent.

Portugal, another bailout recipient, returned to recession, lost 0.2 percent growth by double-dipping the 0.4 percent drop recorded in the previous three-month period—recession is classified as three consecutive quarters of negative growth. Portugal is the third eurozone country to regress to a decline, following Greece and Ireland.

These countries' problems are likely to be protected as they struggle to reduce their mountains of debt. It's these problems, particularly those confronting Greece, that continue to dominate investment news in the euro.

The Commission, the EU's executive, on Friday ruled in debt favors the US three of five.

That will likely spur up discussions regarding currency governance in which Germany will lead a second round.

It will also help calm fears that eurozone countries who can't afford to be in structural or debt-to-GDP or lower to lower long-term expectations. Eurozone ministers will start discussing how to help others in a meeting on Monday.

Despite the coupling debt crisis in the eurozone, the European Central Bank is expected to carry out raising interest rates that will bring the euro zone, especially as the economic recovery becomes solid.

THE KING OF SING ALONG

Long before the karaoke and the videoke, a Pinyo invented an electric keyboard that was an organ that was a whole lot more than just a machine. People called it the “one-man-band” because it gave off a complete band sound (drums included) playing out one piano-like machine. Any organ could enjoy a whole band as back-up with just one instrument.

Kodak wins round vs Apple

ROCKEFELLER, New York—Shares of Eastman Kodak Co. shot higher Friday after a judge at the US International Trade Commission ruled Apple Inc.'s digital-camera patent claims against the photography giant.

Kodak's technology does not infringe on Apple's patent rights, and one of the two patents to dispute is invalid, Robert Rogers Jr., a judge at the federal agency that oversees trade disputes, said in a preliminary ruling late Thursday.

The decision is subject to review by the agency's six commissioners.

Kodak stock rose 15 cents, or 5.3 percent, to $3.05 in trading last week and hit its highest at $3.09 earlier in the day.

Kodak is still attempting to negotiate a royalty-paying deal worth up to $1 billion in a separate claim against Apple and the search in motion, the securities giant, won a 2004 federal patent. The commission, based in Washington, DC, agreed in March to rule on the claim by June 22.

“We’re pleased by this ruling and we are looking forward to the full ITC commission’s decision to rule on our patent claims,” said Apple spokesman.

Apple, which filed a lawsuit against Apple and IBM in 2007, said it was not surprised by the ruling.

Kodak, the 118-year-old camera company based in Rockford, New York, has announced more than 1,000 digital-imaging patents, and claims all of today's digital cameras rely on Kodak's technology. Kodak's technology has become an indispensable tool in so long and powerful digital technology.

After failed negotiations, Kodak filed a lawsuit with the commission in January 2004 against Apple and the technology giant. It also filed two lawsuits against Apple in federal court in Rockford, but it has not specified the damages it is seeking.

Three months later, Apple claimed that some Kodak patents and rules claim that the iPhone and iPad infringe on its patents. One innovation is to a camera's ability to process several images at the same time. The other enables a camera to continuously handle adjustments in focus, depth and color processing. AP

Wall St. faces grim data

NEW YORK—US equity markets wrapped up a rough week of commodity and currency volatility late Friday, but investors face data on the depressed housing sector that could intensify the pain.

Steepest in all prices and the dollar gained 1.8 percent as investors grappled with conflicting signals about the strength of the US and global economic recovery. Stocks pulled back from a three-day run but many observers said had still been overvalued.

The blue-chip Dow Jones Industrial Average slipped 0.34 percent from the previous week, ending Friday at 12,395.75. The S&P 500 index, a broader measure of the market, fell 0.18 percent over the week to 1,207.77.

And the tech-rich Nasdaq Composite managed to post a 0.02 percent gain to 2,820.47.

“The good news is that the average yield is up,” said Bruce Pado of Citicorp Fixed Income.

“We see the end of the bad market but a market to get prepared for a pullback or a correction in the summer.”

With commodity prices rising, metals and energy prices are up. “We expect metals to rise in the second half of the year,” said Bruce Pado of Citicorp Fixed Income.

Spanish cultural-grants program now open for applications

By Angeles Romera
Contributor

LGCC ON its 13th year, it awarded a Concrete Future, the grants program for the Philippines, and former Spanish territories in the Pacific, was launched recently at Manila's Cervantes de Manila.

In a press conference, Jose Rodriguez, LGCC general coordinator, and former Spanish director and Spanish Program for Cultural Cooperation (SPCC) general coordinator, announced the launching of the "Young Cultural Link" between Spain and the Philippines and Pacific Island territories.

The program is a partnership between the LGCC and the SPCC, general coordinators in the Philippines, Manila, Spain, and the Pacific Island territories.

"The aim of the program is to focus on two things—heritage and the positive things that bind us," he said.

Rodriguez said he had just gone to Santiago City to check a cultural dance being proposed for the grant program. He said one of his goals was to "bring the cultural program out of Manila and to the countryside."

The launch support program aims to encourage living researchers on the history and social sciences, which study the shared heritage of Spain and the Philippines and other Pacific island states.

"The program is particularly open to everybody," said Rodriguez. "The only thing we are looking for in these things, is the connection to the Spanish heritage. The only requirement is an endorsement letter from a university."

A 15-member committee of academics and cultural experts, including Rodriguez, will assess the proposals submitted.

Bicol bolds Sarung Banggi festival

BUCK is perhaps the only region in the country which can lay claim to having a regional folk song which expresses the character and aspirations of its people. "Sarung Banggi" is Bicol's signature love ballad, and arguably one of the country's most popular and well-loved folk songs.

Composed by noted musician Francisco Lopez of Ligay, some 70 years ago, the song, which broadly means "love night," tells about an evocative evening encounter between a love-struck man and a shyly romanticized girl.

The song, composed on May 30, 1918, was arranged by Lopez in 1919 and performed by friends of Ligay, the star-struck Bicol band. Because of its growing popularity, the song was arranged for symphony orchestra in 1938.

Along with his brother Mariano, Lopez composed 12 compositions. He joined the Spanish Philippine Constabulary band under Col. Victor Loring and was named its representative to the San Francisco World Expo in 1919. He died of pneumonia six months after the event.

This rich musical tradition will be immortalized in the anniversary of the Sarung Banggi festival in celebration of Lopez's 111th birthday and the song's 111th composition anniversary.

WHAT'S ON AT ROBINSONS

By Lisa B. Salazar

THE GROWING regionalization of Philippine independent cinema is very evident in the Best Picture nominees of the 24th United Urian, the film city's prize for excellence in filmmaking, which will be handed out tomorrow at Marriott Hotel.

Most of the Best Picture nominees are productions from filmmakers based in the region. They also tackle issues that are pertinent to the region.

"Ang Change sa Elektrik" (Creative: Progreso, Inc., Pambansahan Horacio) is set on Olongapo Island off Mindanao in Cebu province. Directed by Calixto Taniguchi, the movie documents the lives of a Filipino electrician who is forced to leave his home to get married in Germany.

"Sublimely audacious, it is able to take a one single sweeping shot. The film is a visual feast, capturing the viewer with its fast-paced editing of a small life that unfolds in a Filipino village."

"Change" was the Jury Prize in last year's Cinema One Film Festival.

New kids on the block

By Marivic R. Cruz

"THE BAYBROS are made for each other. It's a given it can be seen in the finished product," said Director Mark Regio, who, you can't stop talking about his latest project—the TV adaptation of the 1980s hit film "Baywatch." Regio's involvement started with him during the recent premiere of the "Baywatch" pilot episode at the Robinson Center, Pineda City Baywatch called them home's "the danger zone" made of what he described as a "natural phenomenon," as well as being a parent to over a dozen kids.

Is it tough working with young and new actors?

They are all rookies when it comes to acting but they are all eager to learn, during the more conference, we told them, "You're now carrying the name of Baywatch. It's something as broader as anybody if one of you acted up, it's going to affect the entire team."

It seems a challenge on how to direct these young actors.

Each generation differs. I thought I would get more headache from this group than the batch of Bobby Anderson in TUG. These kids have more respect for authority. There were no pin-up photos.

How was it to be in the original "Baywatch"?

Checks flags and Raymond (Anderson) (Anderson) of the original and they were working closely with the kids. They tell them how it was back in those days. When Clarke saw the pilot episode, she said, "They, you go."

How did you choose the cast?

This is a joint venture between Viva Entertainment and TV5. The network recommended Rico Dela Cruz and Eiza DeCadenas, Al Montano and Ari Torres are from KLRB. Al is the brother of Agay and he thought it would be good to continue the tradition. John (Lorenzo), Martin (Pineda), Nadine (Castro), and Ely (Manalino) were only some of the people who auditioned.

Did you require the new cast to watch the original "Baywatch"?

When they already had a sense of their characters. I let them see the original. I saw The Bay a long time ago, I made it a point not to watch it when I started the series but it also was influential.

Do you think these kids would be able to equal, if not surpass, the popularity of the original cast?

It's always a burning question every time they work. I'm confident that they will reach a point no going into the past.

What can we expect in the coming episodes?

There were several episodes I had to make—this way by doing scenes on the pilot episode. I also surprised them that I shot it. There will be a lot of action and fun.

"Baywatch" airs on TV5 on Wednesdays.

Confessions of a Webber diva

Delia Hannah is proud to be the oracle for the timeless tunes of a musical genius.

WEIRDONE—Singer-actress Delia Hannah is a consummate diva who, at the drop of a hat, would belt out excerpts from the musicals that have cemented in the minds of a generation.

On stage and off, she is an engaging and endearing, as her most memorable characters.

Hannah is part of the powerhouse cast of "The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber," a musical concert that is currently touring Manila and New Zealand and will be Manila's next.

In a review that came out in this city's The Courier Mail, Hannah was lauded "as the consummate diva of the musical." For "lovingly" singing "Don't Give Me the Pressure" and "Memory."

Big girl songs

She led the musical when she performed "Agony of Love" in London in the 1990s. "It could have been a semi-swinging, too female one for me."

Asked what it is like to be a Webber diva, Hannah quipped, relishing such syllable. "Lovely. I'm starting to be a crack."

In the show, she is assigned the tough-on-show crooners. "I got the big numbers. I call them the 'big girl songs.'" She considered that she should pull off those classics. Apart from the daunting high and low notes, "you've got to have life experience. You need to have suffered, so you can bring a touch of sympathy into your songs."

She related that the first audition for Guinevere (which she played in last year's touring production of "Cats") when she was in her 20s.

"I might have sounded innocent, but I wasn't ready for the job," she admitted.

ON ARTIST MOONY ON SAN MIG LIGHT
"PARTY ALL NIGHT"

San Mig Light, the country's no. 1 low-carbon beer brand, once again brings the much-awaited San Mig Light Party All Night with its on-the-go Party All Night Moony featuring its slender club party, in the Philippines.

Spilled overboard, Moony (Manny Delapena), the voice behind his "Heart of Vinyl," "Glow in the Living Room," "For Your Lover and I Don't Know Why" among other delicate tunes, performed at the [Gusto] Members Club on July 7.

This is the third time that the Filipino artist is visiting the Philippines.

Moony first got Delapena's mood for clubbing while he was in his mid- and new tracks from his own albums Likelihood and I Want Your Love plus well-loved collaborations with Spiller, Angger, and CJB. Blackout, How I Love You, T&T by Mindframe and others.

Popular Gusto club patrons Marie Eymangco, Razel Bae, Patrick Puyat and Daniel Gutierrez in their own brand of music put this in a nutshell.

This year, San Mig Light Party All Night adopts the Black Light sentiment to provide an alluring treat to Gusto clubbers. Imagine an infusion of anything and everything that grows in the dark. From stars to atoms, heavenly particles to galaxies, like fireworks that conjure light up in space for every moment.

San Mig Light Party All Night is a feast in the glow-in-the-dark black light nightclub where it's intended to stimulate your thoughts and your growth in free freedom.

Hearty the clubbers, the new San Mig Light Party and go. Sounds electric. The more you witness in the dark while you grooves to the hottest club tunes in the moment!

Last year, San Mig Light launched its Party All Night Signature event which saw the artists of recent K-pop J-pop and anime including DJ Matt Casey from the U.S. and Malaysia DJ John Jay, as well as domestic talents who performed in the country's first annual All Stars confab.

This occasion at last year's event had a regional first where stage crew wearing performance suits by Filipino clubbers.

On June 25, the SAN Mig Light Party All Night will be held at Manila, featuring British artist Chicoze.

For more of San Mig Light Party All Night events, visit San Mig Light on Facebook @San Mig Light Delivery or www.sanmiglght.com.ph.

Scholars receive hotel training for free

DM Foundation aims to provide basic training and exposure to deserving young individuals

By Kenneth M. Aguilera

THEY MAY not have had the chance to pick up a cocktail glass for themselves - or at least for yet - but these young individuals are learning and growing, and there are other reasons to acquire model citizenship and skills to gain a better future for themselves.

One of them is 21-year-old Lenny Ordoñez, who was able to graduate from high school but was not allowed to go on to college because of his financial situation.

For a while after graduating from high school, Lenny was not able to find a job, especially because he knew there was no chance for him to go to college, and he was in a financial bind. He then decided to go to the DM Foundation, where he was able to find a job and gain some experience.

Immediately for the young lady, she was given a chance to undergo a "hotel training" program by the DM Foundation, where she was able to learn the basics of hotel management.

The 30-day "DM Foundation Scholar Training Program" aims to provide basic training and exposure to qualified individuals, but this time, it is not just for hotel management, but also for other fields like computer science, engineering, and more.

The young lady, Lenny Ordoñez, is now a hotel manager, and she is able to provide a better future for herself and her family.

Lenny is one of the 25 scholars who are being trained by the DM Foundation, where they are able to gain some experience and exposure to the hotel industry.

With the training, she is getting a better future for herself and her family, and she is able to provide a better future for herself and her family.

time employees at Pico Hotel, the newest hotel in the up-and-coming area of Alabang.

"It shows that even these children have a hope and a future, considering that many of them haven't even had a job or a stable income before they came here," Aguilera said. "The good thing about this training, though, is that after the 30-day program, the scholars would undergo the DM Foundation's other training programs and other programs that are available to them."

"They have an obligation to work for DM or for the Pico Hotel," Aguilera said. "After the program, the scholars are free to look for a job that they want to do in their own free time."

Aside from undergoing the 30-day program, the scholars also get free food and housing benefits courtesy of the DM Foundation.

One of the 25 scholars from the first batch of training is 22-year-old Lenny Ordoñez, who is now working at Pico Hotel, the newest hotel in the up-and-coming area of Alabang, where he is able to provide a better future for himself and his family.

Pencil for Your Thoughts?

What is your creative process? We all have different ways of coming up with ideas and bringing them to life. But one thing is true for all: ideas are "born" in our minds, and they are not brought to life in the world. A creative idea is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world. It is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world. It is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world.

So you know that there is a pencil opportunity created for the thinker who is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world.

Having been introduced to the world for the first time, the Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world.

There is a pencil opportunity created for the thinker who is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world.

So you know that there is a pencil opportunity created for the thinker who is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world.

What is your creative process? We all have different ways of coming up with ideas and bringing them to life. But one thing is true for all: ideas are "born" in our minds, and they are not brought to life in the world. A creative idea is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world. It is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world. It is a thought that is not yet brought to life in the world.

So you know that there is a pencil opportunity created for the thinker who is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world. The Pencil is a pencil that is not yet brought to life in the world.

"One of the key economic sectors that continue to strengthen our economy is the vibrant informal sector. This is represented by semi-skilled workers, taxi cabs, pedicab drivers, market vendors and rickshaws that see passengers every day. Though this is referred to as the 'grounded economy,' it comprises 44% of the total GDP – a valuable contribution from an underrepresented group. This is commonly ignored by women microentrepreneurs who have limited financial assistance and are vulnerable to financial and economic changes. It is for them and this sector that KMBI exists."

KMBI (Kababaihan para sa Maunlad na Bayan, Inc.) champions the cause of entrepreneurial poor women. This is by providing them with additional business capital, enterprise capacity training and charitable formation programs. From 37 centers in 4 urban areas in Iloilo City in 1986, it has now grown as one of the leading microfinance NGOs, serving 258,000 women microentrepreneurs through its 71 branches nationwide. It also provides loans, it has four branches (MORAP, Lapu-Lapu, KMBI Marikina, KMBI South and KMBI North) serving almost 15,000 women microentrepreneurs.

On May 17 to 20, KMBI will gather some 1,200 women microentrepreneurs and staff for the 4th LEAD Leadership Enhancement and Development Camp at the Waterfront Hotel, Lahug, Cebu City. With the theme "Level Up Next Generation" taken from John 15:1-32, the camp urges participants to a deep commitment to full KMBI's vision of holistic transformation by affecting and influencing their own families.

Outstanding leaders shall speak on the following themes: Dr. Philip Flores shall discuss on the camp theme "Level Up Next Generation"; Dr. Benito Rios shall speak on the role of women in development in "Pagangaliho, Sakay ng Bayan Ko." Atty. Norwood Mandano on the other hand shall focus on the "Power of Synergy" as it relates to people empowerment, and Pastor Rito Saguing Jr. shall deliver the keynote address based on the camp theme.

The Camp program provides training visits for participants on the areas of personal and family well-being, work skills enhancement and current market trends led by the following experts: Mr. Eduardo Jimenez, Dr. Yolanda Bautista, Dr. Aracelis Torres, Dr. Gloria Jimenez, Rev. Philip Santiago, Dr. Jonathan Kazoni, Ms. Palou Klautan, Pastor Jairo Benavente, Mr. Michele Castillo, among others. Also, a special night of music focused on holistic transformation will be held featuring the 4NG band and acapella song leader and singer Mr. Gary Gonzales.

This event is supported by Country Bankers Life Insurance Corp., Waterfront Hotel and Casino, BPI Foundation, CCKKMB, Landbank of the Philippines, Design Plus, RISLA Collections, UCPB and Worklink. The Lead Camp 2011 event is part of KMBI's peering 25th year anniversary celebration.

KMBI continues its remarkable service to Filipino microentrepreneurs and farmers by providing holistic transformation opportunities to realize its vision of seeing people live a fruitful and progressive life.
